

Information for Entering Students

Graduate education at Northeastern integrates the highest level of scholarship across disciplinary boundaries with significant research and experiential learning opportunities in Boston and around the world. Northeastern offers more than 165 graduate programs, ranging from doctoral and full-time master's programs to part-time programs and graduate certificates, including an array of innovative PhD and master's programs designed to prepare students for emerging new fields. Students are able to take courses on campus, online, or in hybrid formats. This multidimensional learning environment offers students the knowledge and experience to excel and the flexibility to create the educational experience that best meets their needs. Our graduates are well positioned to meet the diverse demands of careers in academia, industry, and the professions.

- Living in Boston (<http://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/information-entering-students/living-boston>)
- Information for International Students (<http://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/information-entering-students/international-students>)
- Academic Resources (<http://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/information-entering-students/academic-resources>)
- Information Technology Services (<http://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/information-entering-students/technology-services>)
- Campus Resources (<http://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/information-entering-students/campus-resources>)