Graduate work in history focuses on global and world history. Students at both the master's and doctoral levels concentrate on the intersections and connections between national, regional, and global developments. The Department of History also offers a master's degree with a concentration in public history that emphasizes the study of material culture, historical exhibits and museums, historical agencies, and archival administration. Recent doctoral students have been the recipients of major fellowships for conducting dissertation research abroad including Fulbright, Fulbright-Hays, Social Science Research Council, and Chateaubriand fellowships.
