

Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, Graduate Certificate

Website (<https://cssh.northeastern.edu/wgss/>)

The Graduate Certificate in Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies (WGSS) is designed for students currently enrolled in a Northeastern University master's or doctoral program. The certificate aims to provide enhanced competency by:

- Analyzing contemporary feminist theoretical frameworks, methodologies, issues, and topics and their relation to established disciplines
- Focusing on the intersection of gender with sexuality, race, class, and other vectors of power and identity
- Broadening and enriching analytical skills in one or more disciplines while drawing on the interdisciplinary perspectives of WGSS
- Challenging the traditional separation of academic theory from political and professional practice

Prospective certificate students are advised initially to consult with the WGSS program director and the advisor in their home department to develop a plan for completing the certificate.

In addition to the College of Social Sciences and Humanities certificate, there is a specialized pathway for students enrolled in the Master of Public Health program (<https://catalog.northeastern.edu/graduate/health-sciences/community-health-behavioral-sciences/public-health-mph/>). These students are able to apply theories, concepts, and methods gained from the WGSS certificate to urban health issues. Students work closely with advisors in their home school and in WGSS to select a course of study to complete the certificate, including incorporating gender and sexuality studies into their MPH coursework as final projects/papers and naming a WGSS faculty member to their capstone committee, if using the capstone as an elective for the certificate. Students using the capstone toward their certificate must also enroll in a 1-credit directed study with the WGSS faculty who will sit on their committee. Note: Students pursuing the BS/MPH accelerated program and WGSS certificate should wait until they have matriculated into the MPH program to declare the certificate and to begin coursework toward the WGSS certificate.
