

Mindfulness Studies, Minor

The minor in mindfulness studies is open to all majors at the university. The term “mindfulness” refers to maintaining an awareness of the present moment without judgment. Modern-day mindfulness has roots in Eastern spiritual traditions including Buddhism and Hinduism; after arriving in the West, mindfulness practice became a mostly secular practice used by many to promote health and wellbeing. The minor in mindfulness studies is designed for students who seek to enrich their understanding of mindfulness practice, including its benefits and potential applications. Pursuing a minor in mindfulness studies will complement students’ knowledge in the related fields of psychology, health sciences, philosophy, and religious studies. However, developing a mindfulness practice and an understanding of the potential benefits and applications of mindfulness may help enrich the lives of students in any major. Whether students are interested in health, education, or business, by pursuing the minor in mindfulness studies they have an opportunity to learn how to develop a mindfulness practice and explore how to apply mindfulness to their career.
